

Net metering refers to customers who sell electricity they produce, typically through a rooftop solar panel, back to the utility for credit. These customers will no longer receive credit for their electricity generation if they switch to a third party supplier.

Customers who have net metering agreements with utilities in District of Columbia should not enroll with XOOM Energy District of Columbia, LLC because net metering agreements do not transfer to XOOM Energy District of Columbia, LLC once the customer enrolls.