

Net Metering

Net metering refers to customers who sell electricity they produce, typically through a rooftop solar panel, back to the utility for credit. If you are a net-metering customer, XOOM Energy Illinois, LLC ("XOOM Energy") will work through the data you provide to your local utility to determine your excess generation payment. However, it is important to note that you may be better off with your local utility as your local utility is in the best position to handle the excess generation payments because they have all the processes and procedures in place to do this. In order for you to insure a smooth process of receiving proper and timely credits for your excess generation, XOOM Energy highly encourages you to stay with your local utility for your electricity supply.
